“ Yesterday and today my heart has been very heavy. This morning Carl Foster came to my mind, as it does quite often.. You see Carl and Pat were good friends. But Carl has this ability to know when I was down and very low. You see I lost my oldest granddaughter Lauren, Feb. 2, 2008. Carl did not know Lauren very long before her death, but his and Pat's friendship, they send roses to me at The Blue Willow where we lived and Lauren had worked. Those roses meant so much to me, and a lot of other things that people shared and never really knew her all that well. But Carl through his friendship for us and love in his heart always seemed to know how down I felt. And he would call and encourage me to hang on, things would get better.. He was my encourager, always smiling and had a happy face. I am very glad that God allowed me to know Carl, and his big heart. He loved to come to our house and watch ball games and eat. He always came to the door with a smile and something to add to the meal. He was a gentle man, courtiest and polite. Always took his shoes off at the door, even though I protested No! In November of 2012 we carried them to Lookout Mt. for a special thanks, and stayed in one of their cabin's. The leaves were beautiful and the wind brisk.. Carl had one of the best times I believe in his life. He always talked about it being time for another trip up there, but that was not to be. The special thanks to Carl was for his friendship and his love of Rocky our dog. He was Carl's pet too, he always took care of him when we were out of town or needed a place for him to stay awhile. You see Rocky loved Carl as much as we did, when we would get to the turn off to go to their house he would howl as if his heart would break if we didn't hurry and get there! And he still does that, you see Carl had a very special place in Rocky's heart also. A love that would never end! Carl went through his sickness with strength and grace, until close to the very end he was worried that everyone else was o.k. I thank God that I got to love Carl Foster as a great friend and encourager to me.. love you Carl Sandra Grigg, your good friend

“ It's been many, many years since we have seen Carl, but the memories are great. He was a friend to my husband and myself and we spent hours together as families with a great deal of laughter, fun and sometimes tears, as we shared life. Our love to the family.
