“ I have so many memories. Maynard was a second daddy to me since I stayed with him and my aunt Irma so much when I was a kid. He hugged the steering wheel when he was driving a long distance. Once Bob and I were coming home from the beach and we got behind a car and the driver was hugging the wheel the same way I commented to Bob that Maynard was the only person I had ever seen driving like that. A few miles down to road we passed that car and I casually looked over and lo and behold it was Maynard and Lois!

He looked over and recognized me then he pulled over on the side of the road and we had a little reunion.

More memories: taking us to the road where the car went on up a hill by itself. Taking us to Florida and letting me and Patricia twist across the state line. Laughing at me when I got "drunk" from smoking a cigarette. Always so patient and kind, he was a crucial part of my childhood.
