“ I had the chance to interview Mrs. Barfoot during my junior year of high school on the topic of "homecoming nostalgia" and felt it appropriate to share. This excerpt of her feelings and words are dated October, 2019.

"Mrs. Barfoot is a freshman sponsor at Scottsboro High School and has supported ninth graders for years. From creating themes, t-shirts, and floats, Mrs. Barfoot continues to pour into our school's youngest members. Mrs. Barfoot states that, when she was in high school, the armory was a popular place during float-building time. She says students would arrive en mass with their "tickets:" toilet paper to put on the chicken wire. Gone are the days of toilet paper. We now use "pomps" to bedeck our symbols of tradition.

Academic prosperity has always been a major part of Mrs. Lisa Barfoot's life, including the time she spent as a student at Scottsboro High School. Mrs. Barfoot recalls that being inducted into the National Honor Society as a freshman was "a huge honor even back then." Mrs. Esslinger has been a prominent influential figure in her life as well, having long ago instilled a love in her heart for poet Emily Dickinson. Mrs. Barfoot recalls writing her eighth grade term paper on Emily Dickinson for Mrs. Esslinger at the Junior High School. Mrs. Esslinger later returns the three year old paper to Mrs. Barfoot when they reunite at the high school and Ms. Barfoot is in her eleventh grade class. Even today, Mrs. Esslinger, who teaches across the hall from Mrs. Barfoot, influences Mrs. Barfoot to push her students above the bar of today's curriculum. Mrs. Barfoot is known for challenging her students' minds through difficult reads and thought-provoking tests. Mrs. Barfoot continues to pass down the time-old tradition of instilling a love for literature in the hearts of her students."

Thank you for sharing your life with all of us, and instilling a love of Agatha Christie in me. Remembering you, your wit, humour, and your anglophilia fondly always.

“ I was a former student of Mrs.Barfoot at Scottsboro High School . My favorite thing about her was how neat and interesting her room was she had a major collection of Mr. Potato heads , Pez dispensers, and Volkswagen bettles all over her room . When I left her I donated to her collection and gave her a toy Volkswagen bettle . She also is the only person who kept me listening to Great Expectations because she read it out loud to us in funny voices for all the characters. Thank you Mrs. Barefoot for being a cool English teacher.
