I Found the Lily in My Valley

“All alone and broken-hearted, trying to calm the raging battle in my mind
In search of many answers that my troubled soul couldn't seem to find
But I saw a flower blooming where there was no rain or sunshine
And I knew not that this flower would change the rest of my life.

I found the lily in my valley, I found strength when I was worn

I found a place to leave my burdens, I found refuge from the storm.
A place where I could trade my dark skies for beaming rays of sunshine
I found the lily in my valley and it blooms all the time.

So if you're down and broken-hearted and you just can't seem to find peace of mind

You've been searching for your answers but your problems are getting worse all the time

Just reach your hand to Jesus, He'll take you to a place where trials can't bind He'll be your lily in your valley and you can watch him bloom all the time."

“ I had the honor, several of them, in fact, of recording dozens of times with Nick over the years. He was a multi-talented musician, singer, songwriter, arranger, producer....the guy did it all. We first met back in the 80s at Mikron Studios in South Pittsburg, and soon became the "house band" for many, many American as well as European and Japanese artists. We also recorded with various artists at Jeff Cook's Cook Sound Studios on Lookout Mountain in Ft. Payne. Nick was a joy to be with...always a blessing, and brought fire and life to everything he did. We shared the loss of our wives around the same time, and drew comfort from each other whenever we met. He was a lovely soul, and he lives on in our hearts and memories. My deepest sympathy for his Dad and Lori.

“ I have many great memories of being in the studio recording with Nick but my best memory was just before my husband Roy passed away. He was in the hospital and I saw Nick about 2 that afternoon and it's as if he knew Roy was going to pass that night, he said God will heal him but it might not be what you're praying for. You both will be ok. He had a long talk with me that day when Roy passed later that night everything Nick had said to me today day was playing over and over in my head. Also He'll Know What To Do (Written By Nick) was Roy's favorite song, no one at the funeral had a clue but Nick's friend Mike Mathews came out and sang that song first. I was setting there saying to myself I wish I had asked someone to sing that song. It was a God thing for sure. Only a short version of what a Blessing Nick was to my life. I hope he knew what a Blessing he really was. Rest in peace my friend. That Heavenly choir is sounding better all of the time. It was am honor to know Mr Nick Holman. Sara Hambrick
