She was born in Washington, DC where she was raised by her grandparents and went to North East High School in Cecil County, Maryland where she graduated in 1974. They had chickens and dogs on a 27-acre farm. With sharing only one bike, her four aunts and one uncle with whom she was raised like siblings and her had many days of joy and laughter.

Rosalind loved cooking which led her to a career in restaurants. She had such a memorable voice, a contagious laugh, and was very determined and head strong. Her devotion was to her grandchildren. She will be dearly missed by her loved ones who celebrate that she is now at peach with her creator.
